

Know When to Fold 'Em

Ge-Origam-ity

Working with other students from your school and an AU Explore volunteer, you'll be creating Sonobe Units which can be combined to create complex three-dimensional geometrical solids called polyhedra.

While you will use these units today to create simple convex cubes, Sonobe Units are very versatile and can be used to create nonconvex polyhedra as well:

